Public Works Department Director Darren Schulz provided background information on the CMAR request for proposal process, and reviewed details of the project design. He acknowledged no intent to request additional staff for operation and maintenance of the facility; and that the budget presented as part of the plan of expenditure is sufficient. He expressed the hope that, “as the economy improves ... and sales tax revenues increase, ... the share of general fund support for the facility will decrease ... and the Quality of Life fund will be able to take on a larger share of operating the facility.” He further acknowledged that the Quality of Life Initiative was passed by the Carson City voters in 1996. He responded to additional questions of clarification regarding funding for the multi-purpose gymnasium project.

Mayor Crowell seconded the motion, and entertained discussion on the motion. Supervisor Shirk expressed the opinion “this is a great facility, ... there's a need for the community, ... it'd be an asset to the Boys and Girls Club and to the public.” He expressed “general” support for the project, but opposition to utilizing “the new 1/8 cent sales tax,” and advised that he would vote against the motion. Supervisor Bagwell described the decision as “very difficult,” and that she would vote in favor of the motion “because the people supported and voted on the Quality of Life funds.” She expressed the opinion that the one-eighth cent sales tax should have been submitted to the general election ballot, “but 75 percent of this is being funded by the Quality of Life and I believe the community will support this project.” Supervisor Shirk expressed the opinion that “the Quality of Life should fund this 100 percent,” and reiterated his opposition to the motion. Mayor Crowell called for a vote on the pending motion.

Mayor Crowell noted that this was the third joint meeting between the Carson City Board of Supervisors and the Carson City School District Board of Trustees; and that Carson City is still the first in Nevada to hold such meetings. He related details of a recent event at the Adams Hub, created by the Hop and Mae Adams Foundation, and discussed “E Network,” a program designed to change the thinking of our youth relative to entrepreneurial ventures. Mayor Crowell also discussed his recent attendance at the Carson City Schools Foundation kickoff event at Carson High School, where business leaders and citizens are coming together to raise money for K – 12 educational projects that otherwise might not be possible. The community is working together for the education of the youth. Mayor Crowell commented on the recent recognition the Carson City Library received from the Manufacturing Committee for a grant called Nevada’s Working Capital. Mayor Crowell recognized WNC President Chet Burton and the Jump Start College Program, transitioning students from the high school environment to the college environment. Mayor Crowell acknowledged the difficulty the Board of Supervisors has in making decisions for the community and suggested the biggest decision is relative to education. It is about having our students become educated to participate in the local and global workforce. Mayor Crowell commended the Board of Supervisors and the School District Board of Trustees in working together for the common purpose of education. He thanked everyone for attending.

32. PUBLIC COMMENT - Builders Alliance of Western Nevada CEO Aaron West expressed his support for the Jump Start College Program.

She explained her role to facilitate and support industry education and partnerships at the community level. She recognized the leadership of Mr. Ray Bacon for identifying the importance of CTE programs in meeting manufacturing skills and promoting the value of credentials. Ms. DeRosear provided information on the MT1 program; made by industry for industry. She discussed the importance of investing in the library and providing this program at the community level.

Mr. Bacon commented on the perception of Nevada's education system as not being the best. Mr. Bacon noted the importance of getting the education system in Nevada to produce national credentials in order for students from Nevada to be considered equitable to others outside the area. As an employer, Mr. Bacon is looking for a workforce focused on productivity, which in turn is focused on what the consumer wants. Mr. Bacon explained that this program is creating a skill set that is focused on manufacturing; however, it will also benefit future workers in the medical area, transportation, government, etc. Mr. Bacon commented on the number of service area jobs in Nevada and believes jobs in this area will change. Mr. Bacon commented on a book, "The Coming Jobs War" by Mr. Jim Clifton, which refers to the future and nature of jobs and how much they could possibly change. In response to a question, Mr. Bacon discussed the benefits of TESLA to the region.

Micromanipulator Vice President Mike Jackson noted that the Working Capital program is unique; manufacturers are interested in work force development. There is a variety of work force development going on in Carson City. Mr. Jackson has a problem with Ms. Howarth's class at WNC; has students he would like to hire, but does he hire them and pull them from school or wait until they have finished. Mr. Jackson noted that customers in manufacturing usually want their products now. Mr. Jackson believes there's a need to have a work force that can be used right now. This program has the ability to improve the available number of workers. This is a community program that provides a helping hand to someone who might not otherwise be going to school to obtain similar skills. In addition, the program joins together with other workforce development work that is going on.

Ms. Westergard explained that the grant also pays for 60 individuals to take the MT1 test, which would typically cost $300.00. There will be 25 available in Ms. Howarth's classes in the Fall, 2015 and 25 in the classes in Spring, 2016; divided among students in the Jump Start Program, with a preference going towards Veteran's. There will still be ten (10) scholarships available to anyone coming to the library and enrolling in Ms. Loyd's program. Mrs. Westergard noted that the library also received a mini grant for $5,000, which is focused on students' 6th – 10th grade. There will be an internal opportunity to play mind craft, which will be linked to a 3-D printer. This program will crosswalk into the Nevada's Working Capital program.

Ms. Loyd provided information on the Digititorium; an area of space in the library utilized for technology where students and the community make productions by using the green screen, documentaries, etc. The purpose of the LSTA Grant; On Line, On Time is to work with every 9th grade student in the District to create a digital object, which for this project was a Public Service Announcement (PSA) about something in the school. This provides students with marketable skills, which can be used later in their educational career.

Ms. Loyd outlined the grant and goals met thus far; each 9th grade student has visited the library, with most students obtaining a library card and using the equipment. Ms. Loyd recognized two (2) students; Alana Burson and Jessica Preston.

Ms. Loyd introduced Mr. Allen Gosselin, College and Career Readiness, Carson City School District. Mr. Gosselin commented on what the three Boards have done; Board of Supervisors, School Board and Carson City Library, to recognize that everyone wants the same things. Mr. Gosselin acknowledged that everyone is working together, wanting the same things. Mr. Gosselin noted that literacy today includes video media. The Digititorium is open to students after school hours; students will not be turned away.

Ms. Loyd explained that the Digitorium originated from funds from the library's gift account, as well as Carson City Library Foundation. The funding provided for the purchase of twenty (20) MacBook Pros.

Ms. Loyd introduced Ms. Sandy Foley. Ms. Foley commented on a book called "The Boys in the Boat"; story about the University of Washington crew rowing team that were training to go the Olympics in Germany in 1936. As Ms. Foley read the book, she thought about that compared to Carson City and the lessons of rowing and the crew can be compared to the lessons being learned today. All team members have to execute the movements at the same time, if not; the boat will just go in circles. Ms. Foley believes everyone has the opportunity to be together working on the same thing, at the same time. Ms. Foley referred back to the book and commented on things that were working against them; depression, World War II, etc. Each entity and organization provides a unique skill, just like the young men in the boat. Ms. Foley commented on a recent article in the Nevada Appeal; "What are you reading" regarding someone who wanted to build a library in South Africa. The internet brings information, but books bring wisdom. Ms. Foley noted that all students, teachers, businesses are needed in order to have students gain the information, wisdom and skills needed to be a successful community member.

Ms. Foley introduced the students from the two (2) teams from Carson High School who won the PSA contest; Alana Burson, Kyle Glanzman, Victoria Defilippi, Jessica Preston, Steici Torres, Ella Haggerty and Alexandra Siple. The work of the winning teams will be seen at the Galaxy Theater in Carson City, Nevada. The winning PSA's are associated with exercise and academic achievement, as well as getting involved in any school activity were both presented.

Ms. Loyd explained that students had to get permission to use the images and music; contacted businesses and asked if their items could be used for an educational purpose. Ms. Loyd recognized Mrs. Molly Walt, "On-line and On-time" coordinator for helping and spending time with students in the Digitorium.

On behalf of the Board of Trustees, Mr. Swirczek thanked everyone involved for their work in bringing this project together. Mr. Swirczek recessed the meeting at 7:14 p.m. and reconvened at 7:22 p.m.

Mr. Kinkella shared comments and stories from families and other school districts that are participating in the Jump Start program. Mr. Kinkella highlighted “Track A” that will begin next year: Students will be taking their freshman year of college concurrently with their senior year of high school classes; Students taking 2 classes in the summer have the opportunity to go to the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) or WNC as a sophomore student vs. a freshman; “Track B” will be available to first generation students; non-native English speakers who do not write at the college level. Mr. Reynolds acknowledged the presentations made so far and provided information to support the projects. Trustee Reynolds spent some time in Klamath Falls Oregon, a city similar in size to Carson City and the number one university in Oregon for many years, as it relates to job placement is in Klamath Falls; Oregon Institute of Technology. Many students are hired prior to graduation, as local businesses don't want to compete against others.

Mr. Swirczek acknowledged Mr. Kevin Edwards, Mr. David Steiger, Director, Economic Development, WNC and Ms. Lupe Ramirez, Latino Outreach Coordinator, WNC for their work on the District's Strategic Plan.

35. INFORMATIONAL UPDATE ON THE PARTNERSHIP, BETWEEN THE ADAMS HUB AND CARSON CITY SCHOOL DISTRICT, INCLUDING THE NEW ENTREPRENEURS NETWORK - Ms. Miya Mackenzie, Hop and Mae Adams Foundation provided information on several initiatives in Carson City, and background information on the Hop and Mae Adams Foundation. One of the initiatives includes renovations to downtown businesses; first building includes a business incubator, which is called Adams Hub for Innovation. A business incubator is a place where a start-up business can go; everything is included, an economical way to begin, while receiving a spirit of collaboration. Each business located in the facility is provided a team of mentors; business and professionals in the community that volunteer their time to work the companies to become successful. At this time, Ms. Mackenzie has over 30 mentors; Mr. Nick Marano, City Manager; Mayor Crowell; Mr. Mike Jackson, as well as others. Ms. Mackenzie welcomed everyone to come by and visit the Adams Hub; a 24-hour locked building, with someone available from 8:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The second initiative is the New Entrepreneur Network, a partnership with the Boys and Girls Club of Western Nevada. The Boys & Girls Club inquired about the possibility of helping set up an entrepreneur club for their club. There was work done on a business plan and a model so money could be invested in the original idea, providing the ability for self-sustainment through income.

Ms. Mackenzie provided information on youth entrepreneurship; believes it is important and provides good things for the community. In addition, Ms. Mackenzie commented on some of the skills that are important for youth to have. Entrepreneurs are dependable, problem solvers, engaged, etc.

Ms. Mackenzie provided statistical information on youth entrepreneur programs from the U.S. Department of Labor, 2002; youth who completes a 12-week entrepreneurship program in high school is likely to graduate high, go on to college, graduate college and have the ability to make more money in their career, than someone who did not complete a 12-week entrepreneur program in high school.

The New Entrepreneur Network has three components: New E Curriculum – teaching in classrooms; New E Club – afterschool program; New E Biz – start businesses in Carson City, continually self-sustain the program through the businesses that begin.

Ms. Mackenzie introduced Mr. Jeff Glass, Executive Director, New Entrepreneur Network. Mr. Glass explained that his idea is to shape the culture for the youth in Carson City. Mr. Glass shared a story about how; at one time he wanted to be a park ranger. Mr. Glass had other ambitions; however, he reviewed the job descriptions and found there were some challenges associated with the job. Mr. Glass believes everyone is an entrepreneur. Mr. Glass provided the definition for entrepreneur according to Forbes magazine; a person who manages or organizes any enterprise, entrepreneur in the pure sense are those who identify a need and fill it.

Mr. Glass believes entrepreneurship is good to add to the education system for students. As a visionary, Mr. Glass believes everyone should look at where they are, before casting a vision on what will be done. As a business owner, Mr. Glass believes in a reality check. Mr. Glass believes there are two things the community faces with our youth; sense of entitlement and group of hopelessness.

Mr. Glass commented on the group of hopelessness; listening to a radio show, where listeners were challenged to call in. The caller, who provided the correct answer, received something. A group of senior citizens were asked about their worst childhood memory; 73% had the following answer, not watching their parents live out what they were meant to do. Mr. Glass noted that as children, our parents are our ambassadors; learn skills and be inspired by them. Mr. Glass sees entrepreneurship as a way to see the world differently.

Mr. Glass commented on entitlement; feeling like you have all the skills doesn't necessarily get you the job. Mr. Glass explained that he has never hired someone because they have a college degree; might get you an interview, but the second interview focuses on skills, character, etc.

Mr. Glass taught in several history classes at Eagle Valley Middle School on famous entrepreneurs in history. Ms. Glass asked students to raise their hand if they thought history had nothing to do with their future or life. Approximately 1/3 of the students raised their hand and said they didn't see the importance of history in their life. At the end of teaching several classes, Mr. Glass asks the same question, which no hands were raised; teach at large the value of education.

At the beginning of the new Entrepreneur Club, 175 Carson High School students expressed an interest in joining the club; 70 students joined the after-school club, with another 80 students still interested in joining the club. The Club has also been launched at Pioneer High School and Boys and Girls Club. In addition, the Juvenile Probation Department has approached Mr. Glass about the Entrepreneur Club. The club provides students with a 13 week experience to look at the business world and life, challenging them to change their world.

Mr. Glass commented on students seeking their first job; not about employment, as an entrepreneur, it is a part in their education. Education for applicability is their vision; students will receive certification in entrepreneurship at the time of graduation.

In closing, Mr. Glass thanked Mr. Billy McHenry, Business Teacher, Carson High School and Mrs. Angela Golik, Social Studies Teacher, Carson High School for making this available to students.

Mr. McHenry received a Business degree in 1987 and has taught for 25 years, in either elementary education or secondary Math. Several years ago, in addition to teaching math at Carson High School, Mr. McHenry began teaching three (3) business classes. Midway through the year, Mr. McHenry asked if he could teach the business classes full-time; difference he saw in students and passion in meaningful education was remarkable. Mr. McHenry explained that 180 students signed up for the six (6) business classes; 30 students were not able to take this class this year. In moving forward, Mr. McHenry explained that with one (1) business teacher, the demand cannot be meet. Mr. McHenry noted that he could fill his schedule with the first year class; not able to take 2nd year class except after school. The best option would be to offer the class during the day.

Mr. McHenry commented on the number of community partners that help in the class; Mr. Mike Salogga, Business Development Manager, Business Resource Innovation Center (BRIC), etc.

Mr. Swirczek commented on his observation of a class taught by Mr. Glass; all students were engaged, etc. Subject areas were linked together; Math, English, etc.

On behalf of the Board, Mr. Swirczek thanked Ms. Mackenzie, Mr. McHenry and Mr. Glass for their efforts in moving this project forward for students. Mayor Crowell commented on the enthusiasm and pride in the community; value of the community coming together.

Mrs. Michele Lewis, Career and Technical Education (CTE) Director, Carson High School thanked Mr. Glass, Ms. Mackenzie and Mr. Gosselin for their work in changing the business pathway to an entrepreneurship pathway. All career and technical programs and academic programs at Carson High School will somehow interface with an entrepreneurship program.

36. INFORMATIONAL UPDATE ON THE CARSON CITY SCHOOLS FOUNDATION - Mr. Stokes explained that in 2003 the CCSD Board of Trustees created the Carson City Schools Foundation. The district has a Strategic Plan that has provided direction that will help drive some of the goals, strategies, objectives that the community has identified are important to them. Mr. Stokes introduced the Directors of the Foundation; Mr. Mike Jackson, President, Micromanipulator; Mr. Bryt Lewis, Operation Manager, Abowd and Rose Financial; Ms. Heidi McFadden, Realtor, Residential Commercial Management Realtor (RCM); Mr. Tom Keeton, retired community member.

Mr. Stokes introduced Mr. Ian Hill, Chairperson, Carson City Schools Foundation. Mr. Hill has been involved in several activities in schools; Parent Teacher Association (PTA) President, etc. Mr. Hill commented on the common themes of the presentations; alignment, building the citizen of tomorrow.

The Foundation is about how to get the people around one common goal; how do we ensure the citizen has the qualities necessary to fulfill the economic vision. Mr. Hill has been involved in 383 communities in North America during the last six (6) years. Mr. Hill explained that he won't invest his money where there is no alignment.

The next step is to determine if they have the commitment to develop the citizen of tomorrow and is it demonstrated. Mr. Hill believes it is his job to build a town, not the town's job. Mr. Hill has been in Nevada for the last 27 years and knows that when informal leaders of a community align around a common goal of building the citizen of tomorrow, and are willing to dedicate their time, something remarkable happens.

Mr. Hill explained that the Foundation is the catalyst for the alignment of the community around the development of the citizen of tomorrow. It will also ensure that the resources are available so the people of the District can do their work. The Foundation has set a goal to raise $200,000 during the first year. As of 8:00 a.m. following the launch of the Foundation, $27,500 had been raised; people give to people, not projects.

The Foundation would like to take a smart approach; speak with those that have a desire to see something happen in the schools. Through a vision of career development by Mr. Jackson, manufacturers will put up money each month to fund this vision. This will also serve as a way for other businesses in the community to see how they can invest in future employees; put in a little money, develop quality employees.

In closing, Mr. Hill recognized the special things happening in Carson City. Mr. Hill reiterated the purpose of the Foundation; the mission is about building trusting relationships, aligning the community around building the citizen of tomorrow to build a community that all would want to live in. Supervisor Bonkowski believes Mr. Hill is the most motivational person he knows and is glad he is here in Carson City.

Ms. Wilke-McCulloch expressed her appreciation Mr. Hill for his willingness to take the Foundation in the direction that will better the students in Carson City. On behalf of the Board, Mr. Swirczek thanked Mr. Hill for moving the community forward.

Mr. Bryt Lewis, Secretary, Carson City Schools Foundation believes Carson City is on the verge of good things. Mr. Lewis, alumni, Class of 2007, Carson High School wants to give back the opportunities that he would have liked to have had. The Carson City Schools Foundation website is www.ccschoolsfoundation.org. The District Strategic Plan, Empower 2017, including summaries of goals, etc. is also available on the website.

Mr. Jackson explained that local manufacturers are excited about the Foundation. There are various workforce initiatives; however, one unanswered question is; how do you develop the feeder pool to get students interested, show opportunities available, eventually moving them into the programs.

Mr. Cacioppo commented on being inspired as an adult and coming together for students. As a coach, Mr. Cacioppo commented on the many other things students are involved in; Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA), various clubs, etc.
